Neil Mammen

Seldom do you have the opportunity to find communicators in Silicon Valley with a passion for Christ, an ability to hook people into dialogue, and tweak their thoughts about positions of faith and lifestyle. Especially when that is not their “day job.” Neil Mammen, Engineer, CEO, and Research Specialist is a captivating speaker that takes on the toughest of topics about world religions, God, Jesus Christ, and Christianity.

A regular speaker at one of the fastest growing churches in Silicon Valley (Family Community Church), Neil is constantly researching more material to respond to the questions that get raised by people trying to build a spiritual foundation for life. Pre-believers are intrigued by how difficult topics are made clear and simple. Mature Christians are challenged to assimilate the material they are presented with into wholesale lifestyle changes.

If you know of a church or group that wants to pursue topics of faith.... If you are looking for someone who teaches apologetics and doesn't apologize for it, Neil's the guy you want to call. I recommend his teaching highly and so do the people of our church. He is witty, funny, engaging, insightful, deep, easy to listen to, hard to ignore. Enough said... he's too good not to share. So call him and let God use him to bless someone else who needs to consider the implications of a resurrected Christ that changed our world and divided time in half, B.C. and A.D.
